Day 1 – April 24, 2017

Snap the Cap – The Role of Capnography in EMS

This course is an eye opening experience where participants learn the incredible benefits gained from full ETCO2 monitoring and waveform assessment.

Stethoscopy

How much did you pay for your stethoscope? How much training and lab time did you get in proper training? Bob Page presents a hands on (and ears on) session that includes a description of the stethoscope and how to use it properly. The highlight of the lab is hearing real breath sounds through your own stethoscope.

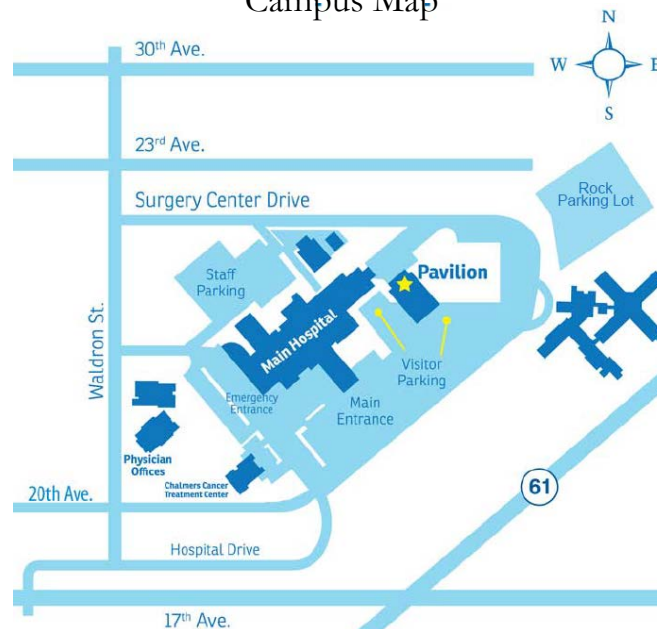

Day 2 – April 25, 2017

Multi-Lead Medics

The course is designed to show acute care providers how to get extra information from a 12 or 15 lead ECG, allowing greater insight into the pathophysiology behind the patient with cardiac or other problems.

“One key to effective teaching is to be passionate about your subject.”
—Bob Page
